General Mills.

General Mills, the man who took in Germano is not a West Point graduate but a western volunteer.

It is fashionable in Boston for the ladies to remove their hats at theatres and other public entertainments.

The great artisan well at Belle Plaine, Ia., is no place for small boys. One fell in recently, but was forced out by the flow of water.

Germano is a very miserable Indian. Not only is he confined in jail, but being sick is compelled to take some pills from the doctor.

Upon the motion for a new trial in the Chicago anarchists case all the prisoners made speeches, the most of them being very bitter.

James A. Garfield, who is studying law in Cleveland, is said to resemble his father in size, complexion, eyes and manner. He promises well.

$5,000,000.

The Missouri Pacific directors at a meeting in St. Louis have added $4,000,000 to the capital stock of the company, and decided to increase their bonded indebtedness $5,000,000. The St. Louis Globe says that the announcement of this meeting is a confirmation of the statements to the effect that the Missouri Pacific will make great strides in the construction and acquisition of new lines in 1887. While the company does not give out figures showing its earnings it is known that there has been a handsome increase for the first three-quarters of the year just closed, as compared with those of the previous year. Interesting developments for 1887 are anticipated, especially in southwestern Kansas.

THE ESSENCE OF TRUTH.

Ex-Governor Kirkwood of Iowa, the venerable statesman, in speaking of the Republican party and what it has done for the people, says:

Republicanism is in my judgment not a mere temporary thing, but is to stand so long as our system of government shall stand, and in my judgment they will go down together, if go down they must. Republicanism stands for equal and exact justice to all men, "for the equality of all men before the law" for argument, discussion, open public discussion and the ballot as opposed to force, violence, rioting, murder and rebellion, and so believing I stand for republicanism. The Republican party has done more during the thirty years of its existence for labor and the laboring man than any other political organization here or elsewhere has done in a century.

WICHITA TO KINSLEY.

KINSLEY, Kan., Oct. 10, 1886.

To the Editor of the Eagle.

We live, we grow. Kinsley the county seat of Edwards county, is a prosperous little city of about 1,800 inhabitants on the main line of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, 316 miles west of Atchison and 332 miles from Kansas City. Kinsley is also the terminus of what is known as the Hutchinson extension of Chicago, Kansas and Western Railroad, a branch of the Santa Fe, and an almost air line from Hutchinson to Kinsley. We are also doing some hard figuring to secure a branch of the Missouri Pacific from Wichita to Kinsley, and in a few days will have some proposition to that effect.

We have a good county of land and a prosperous people. We also have room for a few more good people. We think that southwestern Kansas, say from Wichita westerly 150 miles, will be the great garden of the world in ten years. Quite a number of good substantial brick buildings are nearing completion. Our court house is nearly completed, and is a fine brick and stone building costing $20,000. Our brick, over 2,000,000, have been made here.

Monday evening we will be addressed by the big Republican group of the district as follows: Hon. S. R. Peters, A. B. Campbell, Henry Booth and General Tim McCarthy.

On Tuesday, October 12, the second annual Edwards County fair commences continuing four days, and I want to say right here that we have as fine located fair grounds as you can find in the state.

For fear of occupying too much of your valuable paper I will close by extending to you an invitation to visit our place whenever you desire to take a little pleasure trip and Wichita's boom will permit you to. We will try and spare up something to entertain you. Yours truly, M. S.

ATGUSTA.

To the Editor of the Eagle.

The little city by the waters remains in statu quo.

This morning's shower has made pedestrianism a little unpleasant.

Considerable sickness for this usually very healthful locality is keeping our M. D.'s in cheer.

Business seems to be, as a Tennesseean would say, "powerful dull."

"Reke" has been waiting and watching these many days for the dirt to begin to fly and the stone to appear on the grounds where we had expected ere this writing to have seen arising the walls of our grand three-story hotel and bank building, about which we so enthusiastically and boastfully wrote you some time since. But alas, the rock remains in the quarry, and the dirt remains not. The old hotel bath vainly departed and metamorphosed into dwellings on Santa Fe street, and vacancy stares one in the face in its stead. But the bank! oh, ye shades, publish it not in El Dorado, tell it not even in Douglas, lest those uncircumcised Philistines of the "upper and the nether" Walnut valley may vaunt themselves.

Your most eloquent and talented townsman, Mrs. M. E. Lease, delivered in this city on last Sunday evening, what is admitted to be one of the most entertaining lectures to which our people have ever listened. Have you many ladies of her capacity in Wichita? If you have it is no wonder your city is the wonder of the west.

The Bank of Augusta will open up for business in a few days in their "one story and a hat band" building, corner Steel street and Fifth avenue, and "Zeke" wishes them success.

The attack made on Mr. Jewett by the employees and agents of Mr. Thomas (through the medium of a newspaper) is certainly very discreditable, both to agents and principal. Mr. Jewett is not asking the office through sympathy, and his opponent certainly must be, or his agents would not try to prejudice the public mind against Mr. Jewett, when they refer to his property. Every business man in the city knows that Mr. Thomas is worth four or five times as much as Mr. Jewett; that he has more stock in one bank than Mr. Jewett is worth all told. These are matters that no one cares particularly about, but the effort on the part of the advance agents of the Thomas hippodrome to create the impression that he is a poor man, needing assistance is so ridiculous that it is only necessary to call attention to the fact.

Over ninety miles of the D. M. & A. are now in operation, while twenty more are completed. The work is going on rapidly, and people have learned that there is no let-up of the D. M. & A.—Larned Cronoscope.

An election was ordered in Blaine and Eagle townships, for the second in Tuesday November, being the 9th day of the month, for voting bonds to aid in the extension of the St. Louis, Fort Scott and Wichita railroad. The voters are given this chance to repair the serious error made in defeating the bonds on the previous vote and they can be depended upon to carry the bonds this time.—Anthony Republican.

Senator Plumb is in favor of opening up the Indian Territory now that he knows it will be but a short time till it is done, but in all the years he has been in the senate he has done nothing to accomplish it.—Resident.

Senator Plumb has done more, made greater efforts to have the Indian territory opened than any or all other senators and congressmen combined.

There are dead-locks in four Pennsylvania congressional conferences, and Democratic representatives now at Washington are talking up a new method for nominating candidates. It is proposed to limit the number of ballots to 100, at least two to be taken each day. After that the lowest candidate is to be dropped.

It is stated on rather good authority that Vice-President Smith will go to Boston and that general traffic manager, Goddard, will become first vice-president of the Santa Fe, while W. F. White, general ticket agent, will be appointed traffic manager.

The railroad prospects of Douglas grow brighter each day. We seem to be on the edge of a first-class boom.—Douglas Tribune.

With the Wichita, Cedarvale an southeastern your boom will have passed the edge and gotten fully over. It is within your reach.

SENATOR INGALLS.

Senator John J. Ingalls of Kansas addressed a large audience composed principally of colored men, at Dunning's opera house in Kansas City, Kansas, Thursday. He said he had been accused of flouting the bloody shirt, and that he would not desist from announcing facts until the black Republicans of Mississippi were just as safe to vote as the white Democrats in Kansas. He then turned his attention to President Cleveland and his administration. He said his inaugural address was composed of commonplace platitudes. He said it had long been the cry of the Democrats that officials of the government should affect Jeffersonian simplicity, yet he had never seen Cleveland on the streets of Washington except in a carriage.

In speaking of Secretary Bayard he said he was a man who was incorruptible, who possessed a very high character, was of an illustrious family and had a distinguished lineage, but that he had made two great mistakes. One was in not paying attention to the arrest of American fishermen by Canadian authorities, and the other was by jumping on to Mexico with both feet.

He characterized Gen. Garland as a great lawyer among Arkansas men, and a great Arkansas man among lawyers. He considered Secretary Vilas an "infinitesimal microscopic mankind," and said that Secretary Whitney had been appointed because he was the son-in-law of the Standard Oil company. Secretary Lamar he called an oriental dreamer, who passed his time in reflection, and said that he had been a confidential friend of Jefferson Davis and had declared on the floor of the senate that he would resent any interference that Jefferson Davis was not a patriot. Realizing that he was not a fit man to be in the senate, he said he would resign. He called Dan Lamont, the valet de chambre of President Cleveland, to his aid, and Daniel, after a long search, selected Gen. Black of Illinois. Black is now known about Washington as "Lamont's Discoverer."

Senator Ingalls said if he lived, and the Republican party elected a president in 1886 he would introduce a bill in congress to pension all survivors in the late war who fought on the side of the union.

He criticized the action of the president in vetoing so many pension bills, and for signing the bill to place Gen. Fitz John Porter in retirement, whom he called a traitor. In speaking of the probable candidates against President Cleveland, he said they would be either Blaine, Logan or Sherman.

THE GARFIELD COLLEGE.

Buchanan News.

The excursionists to Wichita returned at 10:30 last night. They attended the closing services of the Christian missionary convention, and the services at the opera house in connection with the Garfield university enterprise. Where they heard a lecture from the recently elected chancellor, H. W. Everest, on "Modern Education." The speaker gave abundant evidence in his address of large experience, wide research and clear judgment. And the frequent applause with which his remarks were greeted, showed that the large and intelligent audience heartily concurred in the views he expressed as to the educational methods needed and best calculated to meet the wants of the age.

Our people were well pleased with all the exercises they attended, and especially with the hospitality of the ladies of the Christian church. A good dinner and supper were provided for all at the church. As the convention may be held in our city next year, we may have a chance to return the favor, in which case we promise to do our best.

We found the Garfield University was being pushed along grandly, and, promising, from the large amount secured for its completion and endowment, to become one of the finest institutions of learning in the west—one of which the whole state can justly be proud. Taken altogether we had a very pleasant day, with nothing to mar our pleasure.

ONE OF THEM.

THIS WORLD NO GOOD.

There seems to be no reason why the anarchist should not be hung. They do not believe in any hell hereafter, and they insist this world is all one can imagine hell to be. Why should they object to a transfer from Chicago to that dreamless land where the eternal slumber is never broken by the cry of oppressed labor. The anarchists have tried both sides of this world. Europe they found full of misery, and the United States even worse. Why should they stay in a world where in one hemisphere you wish you were in another, and where, when that other hemisphere is reached, you would be better off at the devil? Nobody knew how these men suffered until they came to make their farewell speeches. All along it has been supposed they were comfortably off; that they had enough; that they had money sufficient to buy beer and run a newspaper and purchase gas pipes and dynamite to blow up capitalists with, and people have asked, "What more should men need to make them happy?" Still the world has been mistaken about itself and about these men. They now disclose the fact that this world is a scene of unmitigated misery, made so by capitalists. They should not, then, be reluctant to depart. The community, generally, does not seem anxious to delay them.—Atchison Champion.

CALDWELL &amp; WICHITA.

From the Conway Springs Star.

The Star has been informed that the officials of the St. Louis, Fort Scott and Wichita railroad have been over the ground at the solicitation of the people of Caldwell, and the probabilities are that a branch line will be built from that city to Conway Springs, connecting Caldwell with the Missouri Pacific system. Caldwell people are wide awake and are bound to bring their city to a point of railroad prominence. Caldwell lies one mile east and twenty three miles south of Conway Springs and the short line would be a good one.

It is a significant fact that goods are daily being shipped to Kingman and Belle Plaine via the D. M. & A., and Conway Springs, while both of these places have Santa Fe roads direct from Wichita and Kansas City, from which points these goods are billed. It is also a fact that many passengers have gone to St. Louis this week via Conway Springs, over the D. M. & A. and St. Louis, Ft. Scott and Wichita.—Conway Springs Star.
